THE FRONTIER TOWN

Hays City was founded in August of 1867 as the Union Pacific Railway Eastern Division worked its way west. The town was named after Fort Hays, the army’s military post located south of Big Creek. The U.S. Army established Fort Hays (founded in 1865 as Fort Fletcher, renamed Fort Hays in 1866) to provide protection for settlers and railroad workers from Indian resistance. Fort Hays was named in honor of General Alexander Hays, a Union general killed during the Civil War in 1864 at the Battle of the Wilderness.

Many of the first citizens of the rapidly growing town were railroad workers, desperadoes, and other notorious characters, making the early days of Hays City wild and dangerous. The soldiers from nearby Fort Hays added to the rowdy atmosphere when they came to town to visit Hays City’s saloons, brothels, gambling houses, and dance halls.

For several months in 1869, James Butler Hickok served as the acting sheriff after several incidents prompted citizens to form a vigilante committee. “Wild Bill” Hickok, as he became known, apparently was not elected, but served at the will of the vigilantes. The vigilante period from July of 1868 to December of 1869 was marked by 15 homicides. The lawlessness, bloodshed, and feuds that occurred while General George A. Custer and his wife were encamped near Fort Hays prompted Elizabeth Custer to comment, “There was enough desperate history in that little town in one summer to make a whole library of dime novels.”

See history come to life

Shortly after the Civil War, railroad builders and settlers began pushing into western Kansas with ever-increasing intensity, provoking resistance from the Native American Indian inhabitants of the area. To provide protection for this citizenry of railroad workers, soldiers, and desperadoes, Fort Hays was established in 1867 and the city of Hays sprang to life on the plains. We invite you to explore our museums, libraries, and historic sites to see how Hays began.

Boot Hill Cemetery
18th St. & Fort St.
Many of the outlaws were buried at the original Boot Hill Cemetery, which was located on a hill just north of Hays City. “The Homesteader,” a statue by local sculptor Pete Felten, commemorates this first cemetery, which was so named because many of the inhabitants “died with their boots on.”

Cheyenne Indian Raid Gravesite
3rd St. & Hwy. 40 (Victoria, KS)
This is the gravesite of six railroad workers killed by Cheyenne Indians on August 1, 1867. The workers had detached themselves from the main work camp and were unarmed when surprised by Indians.

Mount Allen Cemetery
27th St. & Vine St. • 785-628-8202
Visitors to the Mount Allen Cemetery can piece together much of the interesting history of Hays through the grave markers and headstone inscriptions.

Old Rome Townsite Historic Marker
W. 12th St. at Big Creek
The first town in the area was not Hays City, but the short-lived town of Rome, established in May of 1867. Some accounts credit William “Buffalo Bill” Cody and his partner, William Rose, with the founding of Rome.

Plymouth Schoolhouse
600 Park St. • 785-638-5449
Built in 1874 from hard post-rock limestone, the Plymouth Schoolhouse was moved from Russell County, Kansas, to Hays for permanent restoration. The one-room schoolhouse is now located southeast of Forsyth Library, across from Tomanek Hall, on the FHSU campus. Tours are available to anyone who wishes to relive the educational experience of the late 19th century.
Ellis County is known as the “German Capital of Kansas” and has a thriving German Heritage that dates back to the 1870s. Many Ellis County residents are descendants of German immigrants who came from the Volga River region of Russia and the Bukovina region of Europe. These settlers migrated from Germany to Russia following the end of the Seven Years War in 1763. In October and November of 1875, many of these immigrants left their villages along the Volga River and traveled to Saratov, Russia to begin their journey to America. The first Volga Germans arrived in Hays in 1876, and traveled south to settle land along the Big Timber Creek. The first community, Liebenthal, was founded on February 22, 1876, and was followed by the communities of Catharine, Herzog, Pfeifer, Munjor, and Schoenchen in the following spring and summer. Bukovina Germans arrived in Ellis County in 1886 and continued to immigrate for the next 15 years.

Visit these local landmarks to see how the first settlers of Hays shaped the community for those who live here today.

Bukovina Society Museum
718 Washington – Box 81 (Ellis, KS)
785-726-3165 • 785-623-7844
www.bukovinasociety.org

The museum provides the history of the German immigrants who arrived from Bukovina, which is currently part of Romania and Ukraine. They originally migrated from Germany to Bukovina in the late 1700s and early 1800s. After one to two generations of living in Bukovina, land became scarce and many of the German immigrants came to the United States as well as Canada and South America.

History of the Volga German pioneers, church histories, parish registers, family histories, works on folklore, folk music and art, diaries, genealogies, and obituaries make up the core of the collection on file.

German Festivals and Events
785-628-8202
www.visithays.com
Each year, there are over a dozen German festivals and events held in Ellis County to celebrate the heritage of our Volga German and Bukovina German ancestors. Many began years ago as church fundraisers and include our wonderful Ellis County-style German food, beer booths, polka music, dancing, crafts, and a polka mass. Look for Herzogfest, Oktoberfest, Lanternfest, and others in late summer and early fall.

Historic Churches of Ellis County
785-628-8202
A tour of the beautiful historic churches in our area provides a glimpse of our history and an understanding of the strong religious values of the early German settlers in Ellis County. The Roman Catholic influences, artistic Gothic style, and beautiful stained glass are the most dominant features, yet each church is unique. Contact the Hays Welcome Center for tour information.

Historic Iron Crosses
785-628-8202 • www.visithays.com
Various cemeteries in Ellis County have anywhere from 13 to over 100 iron cross grave markers. The ornate crosses were forged from steel and iron by local Volga German blacksmiths. These markers are unique to communities with immigrants who trace their roots back to Germans who came from Russia. Unlike wooden crosses, iron crosses were suitable prairie monuments because they were tough enough to withstand fires, storms, and years of weathering. Visitors are welcome to stroll through the cemeteries to see these historic works of art.
ART

Rich in talent and culture

Hays has a thriving art scene and boasts the oldest arts council in the state of Kansas. The Hays Arts Council hosts community programs, classes, and art exhibitions throughout the year, including seasonal art walks when shops and galleries showcase local and regional artists after hours. RANS Designs was founded in 1973 by Randy Schlitter to manufacture a unique product called Sailtrikes. These three-wheeled, sail- and pedal-powered cycles evolved into two-wheeled recumbent bikes. In 1983 RANS entered the aircraft market with the introduction of the Coyote Ultralight. From there the company grew to develop and manufacture over 21 models, going from ultralights to FAA type certified Aircraft. RANS is internationally known as one of the top ten producers of both aircraft and bikes. Recently, the bike business was sold and moved to Montezuma, Kansas. Today RANS has produced over 5500 aircraft and distributed to over 55 countries.

AREA HUNTING & FISHING

Deer, pheasants, turkeys

Kansas Department of Wildlife, Parks & Tourism
1426 Hwy. 183 Alt., Hays, KS 67601
785-628-8614 • www.ksoutdoors.com

Northwest Kansas is a prime location for ringneck pheasants. Ringnecks thrive in grain fields, wheat stubble, shelter belts, weedy areas, and the native grasses found throughout our region. Other popular small game in Northwest Kansas include dove, quail, waterfowl, squirrel, rabbit, and prairie chicken. When pheasant and quail season are underway in mid-November, you’ll find plenty of small town soup suppers, hunter breakfasts, and other special events to feed, entertain, and welcome visitors to our communities.

White-tailed deer are the most common deer species in Kansas, and mule deer are most commonly sighted in Western Kansas. Both offer hunters a great opportunity for both quality and quantity of mature trophy bucks. Kansas has different seasons throughout the year for hunting deer with firearms, archery, and muzzleloaders.

Local landowners participate in a program with the Kansas Department of Wildlife, Parks & Tourism to make private land available to hunters. Hundreds of thousands of acres of land are available to hunters through the Walk-in Hunting Access (WIHA) program, with many prime areas located here in Ellis County. The department posts signs on the property and patrols the area. For a copy of the Walk-in Hunting Atlas, contact the Kansas Department of Wildlife, Parks & Tourism office or visit www.ksoutdoors.com. These materials are also available at the local Kansas Department of Wildlife Parks & Tourism office at 1426 US 183 Bypass, 785-628-8614, and the Hays Welcome Center at 2700 Vine Street.

On the Water
The three largest lakes near Hays include Cedar Bluff Reservoir, which is known for its bass fishing, Wilson Lake, which is one of the deepest and clearest lakes in the area, and Webster Reservoir, which is north of Hays nestled in the Solomon Valley. These lakes provide excellent crappie fishing as well as white bass, walleye, and channel cat fishing.

EDUCATION

We never stop learning

Hays is home to three institutions of higher education that make our community richer in knowledge, talent, and diversity. The local campuses recruit some of the best and brightest, and we are proud that the schools’ faculty, staff, and students choose to make Hays their home.

Fort Hays State University
600 Park St., Hays, KS 67601
785-628-FHSU (3478)
www.fhsu.edu
Fort Hays State University is a regional comprehensive university with over 15,000 on-campus, online, and international students. Undergraduate and graduate students pursue degrees in 31 academic departments in five colleges — the College of Arts, Humanities, and Social Sciences, the W.R. and Yvonne Robbins College of Business and Entrepreneurship, the College of Education, the College of Health and Behavioral Sciences, and the Peter Werth College of Science, Technology, and Mathematics — and through the Graduate School.

FHSU blazes a trail in higher education through innovative teaching, learning, research, and service. The university’s reach is global, and its work brings the world closer to Kansas.

Explore FHSU at www.fhsu.edu or schedule a campus visit.

Hays Academy of Hair Design
1214 E. 27th St, Hays, KS 67601
785-628-6624
www.haysacademy.edu
Hays Academy of Hair Design opened its doors on April 1, 1981. In January of 2003, sisters Summer Melvin and Danielle Markley purchased the beauty school with the vision of offering the students an up-to-date, cutting-edge education that would enable them to thrive in the beauty industry. In addition, they had a strong desire to offer the community with professional salon services at a very affordable price.

In 2009, Hays Academy (#HAHD) became a Wella Signature School, then a Nuts and Bolts Business Training Member School. After this, Hays Academy partnered with Sassoon Academy, bringing a world-renowned cutting approach to the already proven curriculum. In 2018, Hays Academy partnered with Wella Cut Craft, the most innovative and creative cutting system taught today, including a great education behind the product — which is a benefit to all involved.

Because of these partnerships, Hays Academy produces some of the most hirable and market-ready graduates in the country. In February of 2012, Hays Academy expanded its reach to Salina, Kansas.
